

A native of Mississippi, Alexis Parker earned her B.S. in Agribusiness Management in 2017 from Alcorn State University. Alexis began her career with NRCS as a Soil Conservationist Trainee in California. She later accepted a full-time position there as a Soil Conservationist in 2018.

In this short time, she has focused on planning, program implementation, and local workgroup and community partnerships. Alexis also serves as an Area 3 Representative on the Civil Rights Advisory Committee in California. Alexis dedicates her time coordinating and collaborating on several outreach activities.

Alexis is an active member of the organization and is now serving as the West Region Regional Representative. She is excited about this new opportunity and expects to gain professional growth from joining organization. Alexis believes in taking risks.

“Great things never came from comfort zones.”